EFPP E-JOURNAL PUBLICATION RULES

Thank you for choosing to submit your paper to the EFPP e-Journal.

This guidance sets out the publication rules, regulations and processes with which all contributions must comply.

1. The EFPP e-Journal publishes contributions on psychoanalytic psychotherapy with adults, children and adolescents, couples and families, and groups, submitted by EFPP members in their preferred language. The e-Journal comprises four sections: Clinical, Institutional, EFPP Study Days and Book Reviews.
2. The EFPP e-Journal publishes contributions in the author's or authors' preferred language, accompanied by an abstract in English. Submissions must be sent to the Editorial Board in the preferred language together with an English translation, so that the Board may make a recommendation on publication. Where a contribution is accepted for publication in a language other than English, it will be edited by Editors fluent in that language.
3. Submissions should preferably be unpublished. Where the work has previously been published elsewhere, the author(s) must obtain the relevant permission for it to be published in the EFPP e-Journal.
4. Contributions should be submitted in Word format, using Garamond 12-point font. Please include a word count. A typical paper should not exceed 8,000 words, inclusive of the abstract, tables, footnotes and references.
5. Footnotes may be used to clarify or supplement information in the text and to provide bibliographic references.
6. Contributions that include images must ensure that there are no copyright restrictions on their reproduction in the EFPP e-Journal. This is the responsibility of the author(s).
7. All references used to document and substantiate statements made in the paper should be included in the reference list at the end of the paper. References should follow the American Psychological Association (APA) Style https://apastyle.apa.org
8. Contributions that include clinical material must take all necessary measures to ensure that personal information is not identifiable and, where appropriate, obtain consent. This is the responsibility of the author(s).
9. Contributions must be sent to the EFPP e-Journal email address, efppjournal@gmail.com, for consideration by the Editorial Board. The EFPP e-Journal publishes three issues per year.
10. On the first page, contributions should include:
    - Title
    - Author(s) name(s)
    - EFPP membership
    - Email address
11. On the last page, contributions should include the following statements:

- About the author(s) – a short paragraph on the author(s) biography.
- Patient anonymisation statement - Potentially personally identifiable information presented in this contribution that relates directly or indirectly to an individual or individuals, has been changed to disguise and safeguard the confidentiality, privacy and data protection right of those concerned, in accordance with the journal's anonymisation policy.

- Disclosure statement - No potential conflict of interest was reported by the author(s)
