International Summer Conference of Group Analysis BOOKS IN GROUP ANALYSIS

July 3-5, 2015
Vilnius, Lithuania

*Brothers and sisters, take it and read
And while reading, think it over ...*

In 1547 Mazvydas compiled and published the first printed Lithuanian book 'The Simple Words of Catechism', that was the beginning of literature and printing in Lithuanian – to educate people and spread culture ...

Lithuanian Group Analytic Society and Vilnius University invite practitioners, teachers and students of group analysis and group psychotherapy to the traditional 5th International Summer Conference of Group Analysis in Lithuania.

Group Analysis being a combination of art and science faces the challenge to be shared and taught, manualized and transmitted. What books should be read to become an excellent artist of group conducting, what books can reveal conceptualized, rational approach and also intuition, spontaneity and creativity?

What difficulties and challenges, excitements and pleasures are encountered by persons who write books and share their experience and knowledge? And on the other hand, what possibilities and new spaces, surprises and questions discover the ones, who read books, learn and test the information in practice?

Finally, our patients gain information and bring the vision of the therapy also from books – what we do with that? What books become an issue and theme in the group, what kind of written word carries a meaning and is significant?

These and other related topics will be the focus of our meeting.

We will have a great honour and pleasure to listen to the plenary lectures of our guests:

Leonidas Donskis, PhD is a Lithuanian philosopher and writer, and a public persona who has written and edited over forty books. He holds an Honorary Degree of Doctor of Letters from the University of Bradford (UK), and an Honorary Degree of Doctor Honoris Causa from Valahia University in Târgoviște, (Romania). Leonidas Donskis now acts as Professor and Vice-President for Research at ISM University of Management and Economics, and also serves as Honorary Consul of Finland in Kaunas (Lithuania).

He combines political theory, history of ideas, philosophy of culture, philosophy of literature, and essayistic style. Among other books, he is co-author of Moral Blindness: The Loss of Sensitivity in Liquid Modernity (2013), and the author of Fifty Letters from the Troubled Modern World: A Philosophical-Political Diary, 2009–2012 (2013), Modernity in Crisis: A Dialogue on the Culture of Belonging (2011), Troubled Identity and the Modern World (2009), Power and Imagination: Studies in Politics and Literature (2008), and Forms of Hatred: The Troubled Imagination in Modern Philosophy and Literature (2003).

Morris Nitsun (UK) is a consultant psychologist for the Camden and Islington NHS Foundation Trust, a private psychotherapist at the Fitzrovia Group Analytic Practice, London, a senior training analyst at the Institute of Group Analysis, London and the convenor of the Diploma in Innovative Group Interventions at the Anna Freud Clinic. He is worldwide well-known author and frequent presenter of talks, keynote speeches and workshops at international group events.

Books of Morris Nitsun The Anti-group – destructive forces and their creative potential (1996) with the new perspective on the nature of group relationship and The Group as an Object of Desire – exploring sexuality in group psychotherapy (2006) have been described as ‘classics in the field’. And the newest book of the author Beyond the Anti-group: Survival and Transformation (2014) captures us by focusing on anxiety and hostility within, towards and between groups, as well as the destructive potential of groups.

Steinar Lorentzen, MD, PhD (Norway) is a professor emeritus of psychiatry and researcher at the University Oslo, Institute of Clinical Medicine and Research Clinic for Mental Health and Addiction. He is trained psychiatrist, psychoanalyst and group analyst, and a founder member and training group analyst of IGA Norway. Steinar Lorentzen contributed to the establishment and development of a group analytic training programme in Baltic States and is honourable member of Lithuanian GAS.

He is the author of several research studies and has written extensively on group therapy and group analysis, including Guidelines for short-and long-term Group Analysis, for use in a research project. Group Analytic Psychotherapy: Working with affective anxiety and personality disorders (2013) is an essential manual and provides detailed description of both long-and short-term versions of group analytic therapy, with rich and vivid clinical examples to illustrate theory and technics.

We all will participate in the interesting optional workshops, share our thoughts in the small discussion groups and will stay together in the large group. The Programme is in preparation and we are waiting for submission of the proposals for the workshops and running groups until 20th of December, 2014.
