FEAR AS AN ELEMENT IN DEVELOPMENT

St.Petersburg, Russia
December 14-16, 2007

Dear colleagues,

We are pleased to invite you to participate in the First Conference on Child Analysis "Fear as an element in development".

The conference will be devoted to the child analysis and child analytic psychotherapy, its possibilities in preventing child disturbances and promoting the broader understanding of child development. The emphasis will be made on the understanding of fears that accompany child development, in normality and pathology, the importance to notice and consider fears in the child by parents, school/kindergarten teachers and psycho/social professionals. These issues will be discussed in the lectures of the eminent international child analysts that will be followed by the discussions of the Russian professional in the psychoanalytic work with children.

The outline of the conference part "Clinical discussion" is the following: There will be a clinical presentation by Russian participants in each group. Then we invite two colleagues from the other Psychoanalytic Societies representing different analytical standings to comment on the presented material. They will discuss the presented child case from their own psychoanalytical point of views and their own subjective vision of the material.

Welcome to the Conference that promise to become an inspiring intellectual event!

The organizing Committee of the Conference.
